IRISH BATTALION
FIGURES IN A BIG
BRITISH VICTORY*German are Compelled to Put Up White Flag at Falsomont Farm.*THE BRITONS' POSITION IS FINE

Officer Declares That If They Decide
to Advance No More, Germans Will Have to "Dance to Our Tune." All Water: Irish Display Great Valor.

By Associated Press

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN
THE FIELD, via London, Sept. 5.—
Despite their determined counter-attack yesterday when they advanced in
waves shoulder to shoulder in defense
of this crucial strategic point the Germans had to yield Falsomont farm this morning. The British had closed around it in the darkness and dawn found
the survivors of the garrison taken
with machine gun fire.

In a hopeless situation, plastered
with mud after a night of cold and
heavy rain, and having gone two days
without sleep they put up the white flag. Meanwhile a British battalion finding little opposition to its own intensive pressure on through mud and
the shell craters and gained the edge
of Leuze wood which carried them
past Ghinchy, where the Germans are fortified amid the ruins with nests of machine guns.

The British gain since Sunday is more than a mile in depth. Irish troops of the new army enlisted through John Redmond and other nationalist leaders distinguished themselves by taking Ghinchy. They rounded numerous prisoners in dugouts and swept forward toward their objective with characteristic dash.

As a result of two days' work the British in case they decide to make no
further advance this year command all
the ridge of battle front from Thiepval
south except around Ghinchy. This means, as one British officer said,
that "the Germans would have to dance to our tune throughout the winter."

CAPTURE MANY PRISONERS.

PETROGRAD, via London, Sept. 5.—
In the direction of Vladimir-Volynsk,
or the upper Serech, Volhynia, Russian
troops in battles lasting from Thursday to Saturday captured 15 officers and 4,514 men. They also took six cannons, 55 machine guns and four mine throwers. This information was confirmed in the Russian official statement issued today.

RUMANIANS RETREAT.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The first day's fighting on Rumanian soil due to the invasion of Dobruja by Bulgarians
and Germans is said by the Rumanian
war office to have resulted in the retreat of the Rumanians, who left hundreds of dead on the field. As previously reported by the German war office, the invaders crossed the entire Dobruja frontier and occupied towns
near the border.

PETROGRAD, via London, Sept. 5.

Russians and Bulgarians are fighting
in Rumania. The war office announced today that the first clash between the Bulgarians, who have invaded eastern Rumania, and the Russians who went in to assist Rumania,
occurred yesterday. A Bulgarian cavalry outpost was snared by Russian cavalry.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE COM-MANDER IN CHIEF OF THE GER-MAN ARMY IN THE EAST, Sept. 4,

via Berlin and London, Sept. 5.—
The Rumanian entrance into the war forces them in command of the German eastern armies was indicated today when Crown Prince Leopold of Bavaria said to the Associated Press
correspondent:

"Rumanians have placed themselves
in a very bad position. They will get their whacks, you may be sure, and if others come in, they will get their whacks, too."

PARIS, Sept. 5.—Comparative quiet

still prevails on the Macedonian front,
the official French report of today
says. There were no infantry engagements yesterday, although the artillery
was fairly active and various enterprises were undertaken by patrols.

ALLIES WIN IN WEST.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—British troops in battles last night in the region of the river Somme in France increased their gains in the neighborhood of Guillem-
ont, says the British official statement issued this afternoon.

The British forces pushed forward to 1,500 yards east of Guillemont village and secured a hold on Leuze-
wood.

Further south a strong German system of defense on a front of 3,000 feet

around Falsomont farm was captured.

PARIS, Sept. 5.—Vigorous counter

attacks were made by the Germans
north of the Somme last night in an effort to regain ground taken in the new drive of the French. The war office announced today that the Germans were repulsed with heavy losses.

German assaults north of the Somme were delivered between Cambier and Forest. South of the river
unsuccessful blows were struck by the Germans east of Valley.

ANOTHER VICTIM
OF CHILD PLAGUE*Child at Allison Is Taken Ill at Allison; Four Cases in the County.

One new case of infantile paralysis
reported to the county health authorities makes four in Fayette county
at this time. The newest case is that of five-year-old Tony Metz, of Allison
works, Luzerne township.

The illness of a two-year-old son of Mrs. Ernest Gooderham of Barnesboro, Cambria county, who was visiting at the home of Joseph Euston, at Elm Grove, was positively diagnosed
as infantile paralysis yesterday.

The other patients are Leona Skinner of Bear Run and Edward Dadds of Jefferson township. Both of the latter are said to be improving.

Leona Skinner has recovered the use of her paralyzed arm but little motion is apparent in her leg. She may never recover the complete use of it.

AMEND REVENUE BILLAllies Representatives Fear Great Commercial Warfare.

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Dramatic amendments to the revenue bill
striking at the Allied blacklist and British interference with American mails
were adopted today by the Senate and created consternation among the diplomatic representatives of the Allies.

In Allied quarters it was declared
that the enactment of the amendments
into law would constitute nothing less than a non-intercourse act preliminary
to a commercial warfare with possibilities of far-reaching consequences.

Until the retaliatory amendments become law with the President's signature
the Allies technically have nothing to protest about but there are assurances that representations will be made if
the amendments stay in the bill.

Inasmuch as the government has decided on a course of legislation to meet
the resolute upholders of commerce
diplomatic correspondence has been unable to remove it is generally expected the amendments will be put through.

The administration leaders who have intimate connection with the government foreign policy made no attempt to stay their adoption.

ORE RATES UNFAIRCarriers Directed to Make Separate
Charges for Docking, Etc.

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Rates on iron ore from lower Lake Erie points
to Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Western Pennsylvania were pronounced generally unreasonable today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Carriers were directed to make
separate charges for dock, storage
and switching services.

The commission sets up a new
grouping for which maximum rates
are provided. The commission makes it clear that it expects its findings
may require some adjustment of the
through charges to points not specifically named in the new reasonable maximum rate and leaves it to the carriers to establish charges to submit to the commission before December. The commission will continue its investigation and on April 1 by a
final order will definitely fix the future maximum rate.

ical Critic.

By Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Sept. 5.—G.H. Anderson of Indianapolis, whose racing car
went into a fence at the Shreveport
speedway yesterday was pronounced
in a serious but not necessarily dangerous condition early today. Anderson sustained a broken leg and multiple bruises but the examination
made this morning displayed no internal injury symptoms.

Bert Shields, Anderson's mechan-
ician, probably suffered a fracture of the spine near the base and physicians
hold out little hope of his recovery.

TESTIMONY OF A SINGLE WITNESS
MAY DOOM TONEY*Murder at Republic Resulted From Card Game,
State Holds.*COMMONWEALTH OPENS TRIAL

First Juror Is Excused to Attend a Funeral and Substitute Is Accepted; Henry Clay Township Farmer
Tried for Illegal Timber Cutting.

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, Sept. 5.—The commonwealth will rely upon the testimony of one witness to convict Louis Toney, alias Louis Ottomino, of the murder of Giuseppe Fidell or John Fudora at Republic on July 26, 1913,
according to the opening address of District Attorney S. John Morrow to the jury before Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen today. District Attorney Morrow said in outlining the case to the jury that the trouble between Ottomino and Fudora arose over a card game. Fudora struck Ottomino,
he said, and the prisoner drew a knife
and stabbed him.

The district attorney said that after Ottomino had been a fugitive from justice for three years, he sent for his wages which were due him from the Republic Iron & Steel Company.
County Detective John J. Smith went to Denver a few weeks ago and arrested him.

Dr. Harry J. Bell of Dawson was the first witness called by the commonwealth. Dr. Bell formerly was coroner and conducted the inquest
over Fudora on July 31, 1913.

Before court opened Judge Van Swearingen excused George Merriman, juror No. 1, to permit him to attend the funeral of a relative. District Attorney Morrow and Attorney H. K. MacQuarrie, who represents the accused man, agreed upon Joseph W.
David, a laborer of German township No. 7, as a substitute.

A. R. King of Connellsville township, David Galley, Lower Tyrone,
David Collins, Stewart, and Ewing Minord, Dunbar, are the men from the lower end of the county serving on the murder jury.

Pasquale Labacello, upon whose testimony the commonwealth expected
to convict Ottomino, told his story on the witness stand. It was to the effect that Ottomino stabbed Fudora
after Fudora had struck him violently
on the head two or three times.

The defense opened shortly before noon and an attempt will be made to show that Fudora threatened to kill Ottomino; that he was of a vicious disposition and that he carried a sharp pointed knife at all times. This affirmation will be placed on the witness stand. It is evident that the case will go to the jury today or at the latest
by tomorrow forenoon.

In criminal court No. 2 before Judge E. H. Reppert the trial of Anthony Glover, a farmer of Henry Clay
township, accused of maliciously cutting and removing trees, was concluded. Mr. Glover is alleged to have cut trees on the farm of H. R.
Umbel, who owns an adjoining farm.

Joseph Byrnes of Everson, through Attorney S. R. Goldsmith, filed a caption suit in Common Pleas court against John Fabianzewski, also of Everson, asking $5,000 damages for alleged assault and battery and false
arrest and imprisonment. The plaintiff claims that on last August 30, Fabianzewski attacked him and then
without cause had him arrested and imprisoned in the lockup at Everson.
Bail was fixed for the defendant at $300.

PICTURE OF CAMP.Panoramic View of Pennsylvania Troops Headquarters Received Here.

A panoramic picture showing the camp of the Seventh Division, composed of Pennsylvania troops, at El Paso,
Texas, has been sent North by Percy Shoetz, a member of the Tenth Regimental Hospital Corps. It is a fine view and some Connellsville boys can
be recognized in the foreground,
though their faces are clouded.

The picture shows how well the camp is laid out. In the background
appear to be miles of undulating
plains, with high mountains in the distance.

WOULD CONDEMN LAND.West Penn to Acquire Long Tract in Dunbar Township.

Condemnation proceedings were started today by the West Penn Interurban Railway Company for a tract containing .063 acres of land in Dunbar township, owned by Isabella Al. Long. The tract is on the clay pike between Uniontown and Connellsville.

In accordance with the act of June 1, 1907, the West Penn company filed a bond for $2,000. The railway company is represented by Attorney L. E.
Brownfield.

OFFICERS HUNT FOR
ESCAPED PLOTTER, FAY.*LIEUT. ROBERT FAY

State and federal officers are making a nation wide search for Lieutenant Robert Fay, the German bomb
plotter, and William Knobloch, who escaped from the federal prison in Atlanta under the disguise of electrician Warden Zerk of the Atlanta penitentiary said that the escape
of Fay and Knobloch was the result of a carefully worked out plot and that their apprehension is going to prove difficult. No traces have been found
of the famous prisoners.

of the four brotherhoods are to make

delphia and New York will go to

SCHOOLS TO OPEN
OCTOBER 2, UNLESS
DR. DIXON RELENTS*The Term Will Then Run to About June 22, Directors Learn.*NEW TEACHER IS ELECTED

A. E. Woodhead of Lakewood, N. J.,
Chosen as Successor to S. G. Fegley;
Has Had Two Years' Experience; Other Routine Matters Up.

Unless Dr. S. G. Dixon, state commissioner of health, abandons his infantile paralysis quarantine in the laboratory, Connellsville schools will not open until October 2. This was decided by School Board last night. If the order closing the schools during September is rescinded, it was indicated, they will be opened on a day
or two's notice. Starting on October
2, the term will run out about June
22, 1917, according to Superintendent Asho.

"I can't see any sense in it myself,"
remarked President J. R. Davidson, referring to the order closing the
schools. "There isn't any reason why
we should be held up. Other districts feel the same way about it, I understand."

The members agreed, however, that it would not be wise to oppose the will of Dr. Dixon.

Solicitor H. G. May notified the board that a hearing on the injunction secured by W. H. Showman, stopping work on the new high school
building, would be held at Uniontown
on Wednesday. There was no comment on the matter by the members.
It was decided to pay George B.
Freed $7,200, the value fixed in the condemnation proceedings against his property. Mr. Freed has not appealed from the decision of the viewers and
will give the board a quit-claim deed.
The other property owners whose land
was condemned for the high school
site, W. H. Showman and W. H. Solis-
son, are not satisfied and have taken out appeals.

The board decided to advertise for bids on the Fayette Field fence, so that contractors may deal with the School Board direct. It was reported that the Alumni Association would raise $300, and the board will appropriate the balance. The probable cost is $700. Lloyd Shaw, a member of the alumni, stated that several plans
to raise money for the fence were under consideration. One is a Movie Day and the other a Tag Day. The bids are to be submitted by September 11.

The report of school auditors J.
Kirk Reiner and J. R. McDevitt, was submitted and directed to be filed.
The bill of the auditors as approved
by court was $75 for each and $10 for stenographic service. The court allowed a charge of 15 days at $5 a day.

The bond of Frank Sweeney, contractor for the electrical work on the new high school, in the sum of $3,800,
with the Fidelity and Casualty company of New York as surety, was approved by the board. The bonds of William Sellers and F. T. Evans, plumbing contractors, are ready to be submitted, it was reported. Both contractors have done some work already on their respective jobs.

Insurance policies to the amount of $46,000 were awarded to three agencies in the following sums: J. D. Forster, $36,000; Goldsmith Agency, $4,000;
S. P. Hood & Co., $6,000. Lloyd J.
Shaw of Shaw & Barner, asked that some of this insurance be given to him, in that his company does not have the same proportion of insurance as some of the other companies do. He was told that the insurance would be equalized when the
new buildings, now in course of erection, are protected. Insurance on the Fourth Ward building was ordered to be withdrawn.

The application of Harry Wheeler,
former high school teacher, for a college permanent certificate, was approved.

A. E. Woodhead of Lakewood, N. J.,
was elected biology teacher in the high school to succeed S. G. Fegley, recently released. The new member of the faculty is married and has had two years' experience. He was graduated from Clark University, in Massachusetts. His salary was fixed at $120 a month.

The application of Mrs. James Rush
for exoneration from taxes was referred to the finance committee.

The election of a trustee officer was deferred.

Members present were J. R. Davidson, C. R. Hetzel, W. W. Smith, Omer
Wood and J. W. Ralston.

HIS ARM BROKEN.Brickman Hurt When He Is Caught

Indications point to a number of successful automobile races as part of the first day of the Fire and Accident Prevention Day tomorrow. V. J. Clark
of the Connellsville Garage reports
a good contest in the hill climb, and others will be received by Mr. Clark.
A. S. Silex or R. K. Long up to 5 o'clock tonight.

The hill climb will be for two classes of cars, rated according to the displacement of their motors. One class will bring together cars of more than 300 cubic inches piston displacement and the other of less than that amount. Each contestant will be required to make a standing start at Pittsburg street and those making the best time to 60 feet below Main street
will be adjudged the winners. C. A.
Wagner will be starter. He will stand at the top of Apple street hill
and fire the shots which will send
the cars on their journey up the steep hill. V. J. Clark will see that the cars get off according to the regulations and A. S. Silex will take the time at the finish.

If any racing cars appear, an extra event will be run after the hill
climb.

At the conclusion of the climb the obstacle race, designed to test the ability of drivers will be run. It will

SHOWS ARE WARNEDKeep Youngsters Out or Close Up, Is
the Order.

The board of health this morning
issued a warning to the managers
of the carnival showing on the West Side that unless they refused to admit
children under 16 years of age, the shows would be closed.

Last night Health Officer Hetzel
was on hand to exclude the kids from
the carnival grounds, but without the
co-operation of the show managers,
he says, he could do nothing. As fast as he would chase one youngster
another would slip in. He had no assistance from police or firemen.

It is said that owners of concessions do not hesitate to allow the children to ride on the carousel and
to enter the various shows.

Dr. C. W. Ude, president of the health board, notified carnival officials
that the shows would be closed unless all children were excluded from the grounds.

TWO GO TO JAIL

They Are Given a 30-Day Sentence in Police Court.

Alderman W. D. Colborn held police court at 8 o'clock this morning in the absence of Mayor Marotta. Two men were sentenced to 30 day terms in the county jail Joe Daley, arrested on Water street by Patrolmen Daugherty and Turner, and charged with drunkenness and sleeping on the street, drew one of the trips to Uniontown. Detective Mitchell and several policemen testified that Daley was a nuisance. Robert Montague of South Connellsville was also sent to the bastille for 30 days. Montague was charged with drunkenness.

Mary Percy who was sleeping in Orchard alley when discovered by the police, was arraigned before Squire Colborn and charged with drunkenness. Percy was in a helpless condition when arrested, it is said, and Patrolmen Daugherty and J. Francis had to carry him to the lock-up. He was discharged.

The police force has begun a crusade against the loafers who frequent Water street, according to Acting Chief Thomas McDonald. Anyone of them who appears in police court more than once will be sent to jail, the authorities say.

WINELAND PROSPERS

Former Meyersdale Man Does Well in Philadelphia.

Elias Wineland of Philadelphia was a caller at this office yesterday afternoon. He is now in the coke business among other things and wanted to subscribe for The Weekly Courier in order to keep informed.

Elias Wineland was at one time a leading Meyersdale merchant, but the place was too small for him. He accumulated a start and drifted to Philadelphia, where he has since made a modest fortune. He is the chief backer of the Banning-Connellsville Coke Company, whose Wineland plant of 75 ovens is located at Banning, on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, and of the Wineland-Gilmore Coke Company operating the Winmore plant of 60 ovens at Smithton. Elias grows old gracefully.

TO REBUILD THE MONTANA MINE

Consolidation Co. to Expend $80,000 in Modernizing Its Big Fairmont Coal Mining Plant.

Plans have been developed and an appropriation of $80,000 has been made by the Consolidation Company to completely remodel the Montana mine at Fairmont with a view to increasing its efficiency and enlarging its output.

The plant was opened thirty years ago by J. E. Watson, C. W. Watson and S. L. Watson and James Oils Watson, the pioneer coal operators of northern West Virginia. It was at this plant that coke was first successfully manufactured in the Fairmont field.

It is now planned to dismantle the old equipment and install new machinery throughout, making the plant modern in every particular. A new steel tippie will be erected provided with leading achutes and shaking screens. The plant will be provided with new blacksmith shops and new machine shops. All of the machinery will be electrically driven by means of a transmission line to be built from the central power station at Hutchinson. Two sub-stations will be installed, one at the pit mouth and a second at a distance of two miles under ground.

A new tache haulageway will be laid with a 50-pound steel rail and rock ballasted. The houses in the mining town have been repainted and repaired. New houses will be constructed to provide for the additional men who will be brought to the mine.

The Montana mine is the oldest big plant in the Fairmont field. There is still a big acreage of good coking coal to be mined and it is for that reason that the new improvements are being installed. All of the machinery and equipment has been ordered and the work will be started at once. When the improvements are completed 300 miners will be employed.

Coal Cars Short.

Coal men complain of the car shortage, which is about as bad as last week. None of the roads are able to furnish the number of cars needed.

MT. PLEASANT WILL HAVE A SCHOOL FOR AMBITIOUS ALIENS

Teacher is Named to Aid Foreigners Seeking Citizenship.

FRICK COMPANY PAYS SALARY

School Board Furnishes the Room. While Federal Bureau Supplies the Course of Study; Public Schools Will be Opened on October 2; Notes.

Special to The Courier.
MOUNT PLEASANT, Sept. 5.—The school board held their regular monthly meeting last evening and deferred the opening of any of the public schools until October 2. No contract was awarded for fuel for the school building owing to the lack of bids. The naturalization school was taken up by the board and Norman Hayes was elected teacher of the night school for foreigners preparing for naturalization. The school is being organized by H. T. Graft of Washington, D. C., who came to Mount Pleasant August 26, and arranged with General Superintendent Clay P. Lynch of the H. C. Frick Coke Company to pay the salary of the teacher and the local school board was to furnish a room, light and heat for the school. This school will open in the high school building early in October. The outlines of study and books are furnished by the Washington representatives. The school is open to both men and women preparing for naturalization. They will be instructed in reading and writing English and civics. The school will not be confined to employees of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, but to any needing this course of instruction.

The borough council held their regular monthly meeting last evening and following the paying of bills and the regular routine business, Health Officer Frank Simpson made a complaint to council about children under 16 going to some of the local churches and was given the power to investigate and punish all offenders. It is expected that immediate action will be taken as in some cases the allowance of children in the churches seemed a dare to the Board of Health to enforce the law. The Hook and Ladder company had a representative present who asked that they be allowed to use the Frick ball park for a carnival, which they have looked. This was referred to the property committee. The embargo question was discussed and referred to the ordinance committee. A change was made on the curb to be used on North Church street from mountain stone to concrete with gutter combined. The La France inspector made an inspection of the local fire truck which has been in use over a year and made a report to council that the driver, Ralph Nelson, has his truck in the best shape of any truck that he ever inspected. He made the statement that the truck was in perfect condition.

est Copeland and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lakin of Bradstock Road avenue. Eli Kulp of Keokuk was in town yesterday calling on old friends. The Ministerial Association held a meeting yesterday when the Rev. H. A. Darley read a paper on "The Program of An Efficient Church." The local ministers decided to hold the annual Thanksgiving service in the Church of God, and that the Rev. C. P. Sulladay will preach the sermon.

Are Medicine Liquors? A certain class of prejudiced and jealous doctors call patent medicines only alcoholic beverages. They will tell you that such and such a medicine contains as much alcohol as a glass of beer or a certain quantity of whiskey; but they do not mention that the beer or whiskey is swallowed at one draught, while only a small quantity of the medicine is taken at one dose. At the same time they will use alcohol quite as freely and many in four or five times as great proportions in their own prescriptions. Such standard remedies as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound use barely enough alcohol to preserve the root and herb extracts, too little to have injurious effects; and the medicine can be had, if desired, in a non-alcoholic form. CONNELLSVILLE WATER RATE.

The Conneltsville Water Company seeks to annul the decision of the Public Service Commission in the Rendine case by posting a new rate declaring that on and after October 1, next, numerous classes of its consumers will be charged meter rates. These new rates it seems will become automatically effective at the time mentioned unless sooner objected to by the city of Conneltsville or some citizen thereof, notwithstanding the decision of the commission that under present conditions the company must furnish water to consumers by meter or at the flat rate as the latter may elect.

In order, therefore, to preserve the blessings of the Rendine decision to Conneltsville it seems necessary for a representative of the community to protect against the water company's proposed amendment of Rule 8. The municipal authorities should perhaps do this through the city solicitor, but if the municipality declines to interfere as it did on a former occasion it will be necessary for some citizen or citizens to do so. The Chamber of Commerce or the Business Men's Association might take the matter up in event that the City Council fails to act. In case nobody else comes to the rescue, perhaps Conneltsville can rely upon the public spirit of the original complainant, Richard Vincent Rendine.

Protest should probably be filed with the Public Service Commission before October 1. Who will be the first to file it?

A GOOD INVESTMENT.

The action of the State Highway Department in refusing to permit the National Pike to be roped off and appropriated as a speedway by the Uniontown motorists is the best thing that could have happened to the county seat municipality in this connection. It has caused the speed artists to build a first-class motorhome at a cost of $100,000, which will make Uniontown the center of motor events in all this section of the country. The Greensburg Review says:

"For a certain time at least Uniontown will be the center for motor racing events in Western Pennsylvania. Pittsburgh does not have a suitable speedway for auto racing and there are many followers of the sport in that city. Indianapolis is the pioneer city in the country for automobile racing and Uniontown motorists who are devotees of the sport, have journeyed annually to that city until they have become obsessed of the idea that they must have their share of the sport that gives a thrill a second night at home. And it looks very much as though they're going to get it in such a way as to be out of reach of the strong arm of the State Highway Department, which blocked their highly exciting game."

The investment in a speedway is pretty stiff, but the returns will be more substantial than mere thrills. Uniontown is destined to become an automobile center. It will not manufacture machines, but it will sell them. Upon the whole there's probably more profit in selling automobiles than in manufacturing them, that is to say the profit of the salesman is greater than that of the factory when it is considered that the salesman has no investment.

It may be too much to say that Uniontown's new speedway will pay for itself, but given time enough there is no reason to think otherwise.

OWNERS OF THE RAILROADS.

It has long been a popular impression that the railroads of this country were owned by a few rich people. This impression is natural in view of the fact that control of the leading lines has seemed to have been vested in certain rich families or millionaire families. But as a matter of fact it appears that the railroads are actually owned by the Common People. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company, for example, has over 92,000 stockholders, many of whom are women. The Atlantic, Toledo & Santa Fe Road has 42,000 stockholders among which are a large number of farmers in the western states. The Illinois Central, one of the smaller but important roads, has its stock distributed between 11,000 persons. Savings banks, insurance companies and other institutions which serve the great body of people in the capacity of trustee in their savings and investments are large holders of railway stocks.

Although a few persons of large wealth are owners of large blocks of stock, their holdings compared with the aggregate of the smaller stockholders is but a small part of the total. This wide distribution of railroad securities shows how vastly necessary it is to the general prosperity that railroad property be so conserved that the value of their securities do not depreciate. Whenever disaster comes to the railroads, through inability to secure adequate earnings or otherwise, the consequences must inevitably be shared by the public.

The Direct-to-Dunbar project is going directly forward, but it will need somebody behind it all the time to see that it never slumbers or even hesitates. The next step will be the approval of the Grand Jury, and this is where the local committees will be needed. The Direct-to-Dunbar Association should organize.

President Wilson adopted for himself the Democratic nomination for President at Long Branch, N. J., on Saturday, and the Lincoln log cabin memorial for the American people at Hodgenville, Ky., on Monday. A man who jumps about the country accepting things like this would be much embarrassed by a railroad strike. The President wanted the strike settled from a personal as well as a public point of view.

The water battle is too strenuous. It will have to be regulated to rules of safety.

The school audit makes no surcharges this year, but Citizen Showman says the school directors have exceeded their authority in having paid and locating the high school building upon its present site.

Bread prices go up. This was not the promise of the Democrats in 1912.

There is no freight congestion following the lifting of the various embargoes imposed prior to the strike settlement. Everything has been settled in a satisfactory manner except the bill, and the public will pay that in due time.

Labor Day is a day of sporting events, and in consequence more or less of a holiday no matter what anybody may say.

The carnival is with us once again.

Another case of the dread infantile paralysis is reported in Fayette county. The case cannot be drawn too tightly until we are satisfied the disease is on the scene. It is reported in New York. Perhaps it will come in Conneltsville.

The Grand Jury has a minister as foreman. Fayette county is electing some of her best men for jury duty and this course is putting them right in front.

The arm of Fayette county justice has a long reach. It brought a man back from Denver after having been at large for some years to stand trial for murder.

The cost of the South Conneltsville bridge is finally estimated at $220,000, but this does not include the contributions which will be made toward its construction. They will probably reduce the cost to $155,000. The county ought to be willing to pay that amount.

"When you're off on that motor trip," says the Pittsburg Gazette, "be careful not to run over any friends."

The quarantine on account of the infantile paralysis is hard on the children, but it is necessary for their protection against the consequences of a terrible malady. A disease which may strike them with death or leave them hopelessly crippled for life cannot be too carefully guarded against.

It takes more than four milk to insure longevity in the Balkans just now.

The married men are coming back from the border with the full knowledge that they will be only lieutenant governors at home.

Wilson's Union Views

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(Special.)—Averton, Pa., Sept. 2.—(Special.)—The American Federation of Labor proposes to attack the record of President Charles Evans Hughes toward labor, and to plead the cause of President Woodrow Wilson in the coming campaign. President Hughes will offer as evidence in support of his attack the judicial attitude of Mr. Hughes in the Dunbar matter case. Regardless of Hughes' holding in that case, and it is generally admitted that it was not such, evidence of the just rights of labor, it should be borne in mind by every laboring man in this country that while Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court Hughes was performing his sworn duties in interpreting Federal statutes. Any deviation from that position would subject the highest point in the land, and rightly so, to the suspicion of all classes and sections of the country. Failure on the part of our Supreme Court judges to interpret statutory legislation without fear or favor would render the law a mockery and institutional liberties a hothouse for the propagation of class control and destroy our republican form of government.

On the other hand, we have as a matter of record the barefaced sermon of Woodrow Wilson, delivered to the students of Princeton University, June 11, 1910, at that time Wilson was a candidate for the Presidency. He had no political axe to grind. He felt at liberty to speak freely the thoughts that came into his mind, and he did. He addressed several hundred young men who were going out into the world, and whose thoughts had been molded by everyone of those young men left his alma mater with these words ringing in their ears:

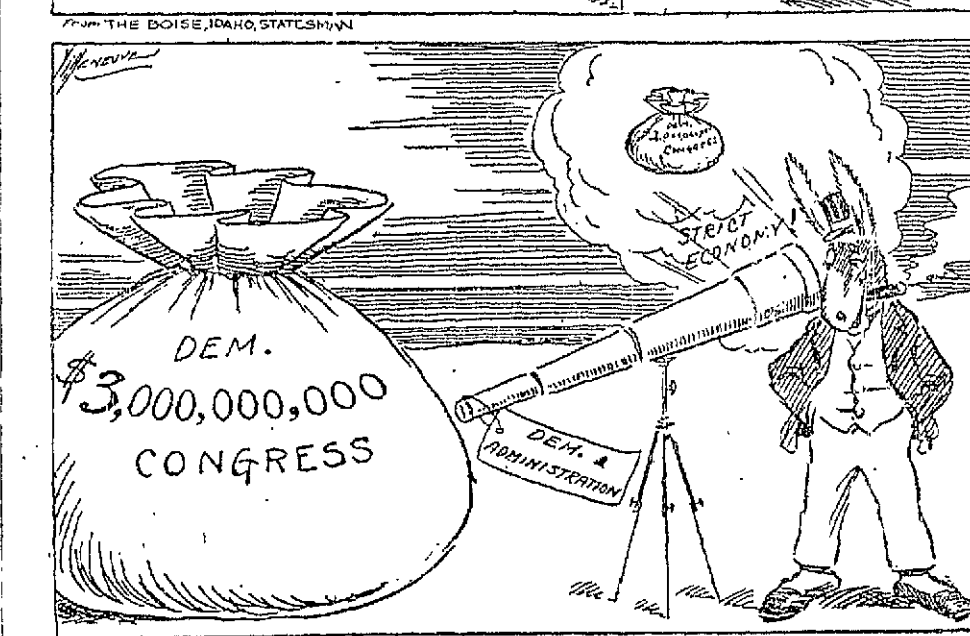

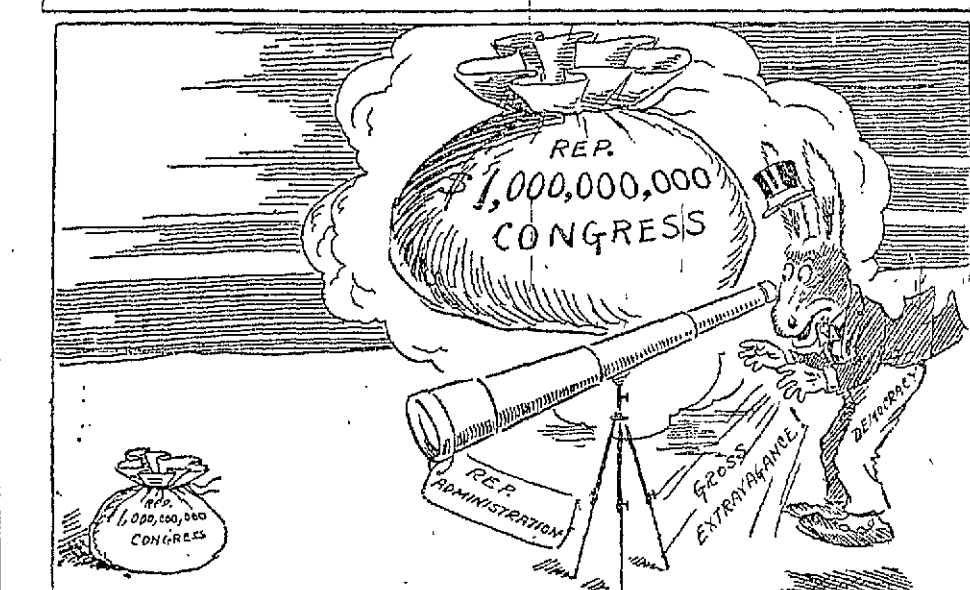

You know what the usual standard of the employer is in this day. It is to give as little as he may for his wages. Labor is standardized by the trades unions, and this is the standard to which it may be made to conform. No man is suffered to do more than the average workman can do. In some trades and handicrafts no one is suffered to do more than the best skillful of his fellows can do within the hours allotted to a day's labor, and no one may work out of hours at all or volunteer anything beyond the minimum. I need not point out how necessary it is to the employer that in some trades it will presently not be worth his while to attempt anything at all, while he better stop altogether than operate at an inevitable and inevitable loss. The labor of America is rapidly becoming uncollectable under its present regulation by those who have determined to reduce it to a minimum. One economic remedy may be had because the country grows more and more full of uncollectable servants. Labor will have its own day service to perform in considering the matter of the two candidates for the presidency, and this is part of the evidence against Woodrow Wilson.

SLEEPING IN A TENT.

Sleeping in a tent is a tried and tested method of getting close to nature and the domestic mosquito. For some reason which science has never been able to explain, the American mosquito operates at his best in a well-tent which has been swathed in netting. Many a man has left an airtight chamber two nights up, where he was free from mosquitoes and breath and sought refuge in a tent out in the yard, only to arise in the morning decorated with the pink art craft of

School Openings Postponed

On account of the epidemic of infantile paralysis the state authorities have postponed the opening of the public and parochial schools in Pennsylvania until September 29th. The date coming on Friday means no opening until Monday, October 2nd. This, however, has no effect on our preparations for school clothing, and up to the present time has had no effect on the parents' preparation. The demand for school clothing for boys and girls has been very extensive—larger than ever. Many lines of girls' raiment have been closed out, but the stocks are now replenished with newer and really better styles. The same condition exists in the boys' lines. A great many mothers were delayed in making their arrangements for school outfits and consequently were obliged to prepare hurriedly, but now they can take their own time and get what they want. The Union Supply Company management has exerted every effort to have popular lines of boys' and children's school clothing. Their buyers have been exceedingly particular, and we feel quite safe in saying that our styles will compare favorably with any near-by town store, and we will go further and state without fear of contradiction that our prices are lower.

Announcement!

The Passing of the 5 Cent Loaf; We Find It Impossible to Make a Loaf to Sell at 5 Cents; Flour has Advanced From $2.50 to $3.50 Since July 1.

The crisis which the industry faces today is far more acute than the one which caught us in February of 1915. First, because the bakers have since then practically exhausted the ordinary means of reducing weights and exercising economies; second, because, while flour alone was high then, everything is high now. Flour, shortening, sugar, milk, wrapping paper, feed, gasoline, fuel, etc., have all advanced in two years from 35 to 75 and 100 per cent, and new measures must be resorted to, and that at once.

It is now a case of immediate increase in the price of bread, either by a 20 or 25 per cent reduction in the size of the loaf, or by raising the selling price an equal amount. The small loaf cannot be reduced 25 per cent in size and have a salable loaf left. If the 5-cent loaf be abandoned, the 10-cent loaf must be reduced 20 per cent in size, and in many instances this will mean new pans, or at best an increase in the supply, all of which requires time; and if large numbers of orders are placed at once, serious delay in getting them out will be encountered.

So under these conditions we have decided to continue making our high quality bread and same weight as usual and advance our prices to six cents for the small loaf and 12 cents for the large loaf until the flour market returns to normal conditions again.

ITCHING BURNING WATER BLISTERS

On Little Girl's Head, A Terrible Slight, Little Boy Broken Out Over Body, Awake Nights.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"My little girl's trouble began by her head coming out in small water blisters, and when they would burst, where the water would touch, it would form a new part and there would soon be a seal on it, and so on until the whole head was a terrible sight. My little boy was similarly treated, and in a few days was broken out over his body. My daughter was annoyed very much and my little boy was continually crying. They had the trouble a month and it was very bad, but they were healed by Cuticura."

"Remember what Cuticura Soap and Ointment had done for my two other children I made up my mind to try them. In six weeks they were entirely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Thomas Holt, 230 Illinois Ave., Edwardsville, Pa., Oct. 29, 1915.

WHAT NERVOUS PEOPLE NEED

Wonderfully Speedy New Found Relief for Tired, Worn Out, Shattered, Unstrung Nervous Systems.

It is simply marvelous, the speedy relief that a single Margo Tablet will give any man or woman whose nerves are upset, unstrung or dulled, tired and ambitious. Every tablet seems to go straight to the nerve cells, overcoming in just a few moments fatigue, despondency, "jumps," "nights," nervous indigestion and all those other symptoms of run-down nerve force that are so surely the forerunners of nervous prostration and general nervous breakdown.

Margo vitalizes your tired, over-worked nervous system, restores to you the power of tremendous endurance and reserve energy and does it without a single dangerous drug. Margo is a scientific combination of six of the most powerful and effective, yet absolutely harmless, nerve stimulants known to chemistry and a month's systematic use should completely transform the worst nervous wreck into a strong, healthy, vigorous man or woman.

Margo really does more good in the average case of "nerves" than a month's vacation because it not only "rests" the nerves but puts new snap and "ginger" and courage into your entire body.

Margo must accomplish these things or its cost is nothing. Laughrey Drug Co. and other leading druggists in Connellsville sell it with this absolute guarantee, positively agreeing to refund the price paid to any patron who fails to derive great benefit from 60 days' faithful use—Adv.

FOOTBALL SEASON SOON TO OPEN

The Annual Gridiron Campaign Begins September 16.

1,300 BIG GAMES SCHEDULED

With Preparatory and High School battles the number is brought up to 5,000; California to Start Season Earliest of Important Events.

Intercollegiate games stand out as the feature of the football season of 1916, which will be under way shortly. At most every section of the country will be represented in these gridiron clashes, and indications point to unusual interest and enthusiasm in the great American college game this fall. Close to three months' play will be witnessed this season, as the opening game is scheduled for Sept. 16, and the closing contests will not be staged until Dec. 9.

Each year the number of games increases, and the coming season has more games scheduled than was the case twelve months ago. According to the list prepared in connection with the revised rules of play, the teams of the leading colleges and universities of the country will figure in more than 1,300 contests, while the preparatory and high school eleven will compete in more than twice that number, bringing the total close to the 5,000 mark.

The University of California will be the first on the gridiron this fall. The Berkeley team getting into action on Saturday, Sept. 10. Seven days later Dartmouth, Harvard and Georgetown will be among the larger colleges to start active football competition. On the last Saturday of September Cornell, Princeton, Syracuse, Army, Navy, Pennsylvania, Yale, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and a few of the middle western colleges will play their opening games. Michigan starts her gridiron campaign on the following Wednesday, and on Saturday, Oct. 7, Chicago, Illinois, Minnesota, Missouri and Wisconsin follow suit.

Yale will depart from the conventional on Friday, Oct. 20, by playing Virginia Poly at New Haven, but this is an exceptional move, made necessary by the fact that the Yale bowl will be used on Saturday for the staging of a special concert. The last Saturday of October will witness the final meetings of the eleven of the larger universities of both the east and west, and the results of these games will have a direct bearing on the final outcome of the championship claims of the contending teams. Cornell will line up against Harvard; Dartmouth will tackle Princeton; Michigan will have Syracuse as an opponent; Pennsylvania and Pittsburg clash; North and South Dakota meet in their annual game. Tennessee plays the University of Florida; Vanderbilt and Virginia come together, and Yale will seek to defeat Washington and Jefferson.

The opening Saturday of November will witness the following important games: Harvard versus Virginia, Dartmouth versus Syracuse, Army versus Notre Dame, Minnesota versus Illinois, Missouri versus Texas, California versus Southern California, Yale versus Colgate, Pennsylvania versus Lafayette, Washington versus Oregon, Chicago versus Purdue and Georgetown versus Louisville. A week later Harvard and Princeton, Cornell and Michigan and Pennsylvania and Dartmouth will furnish the feature games of the east, while Tennessee and Vanderbilt, Virginia and South Carolina, Washington and Los Angeles Bucknell are dividing the honors in the south.

On that day Wisconsin and Minnesota, Chicago and Illinois, will be the big contests in the middle west, Yale versus Princeton, Harvard versus Brown and Syracuse versus Colgate, the eastern feature games. Pennsylvania will journey to Ann Arbor for her annual meeting with Michigan. Notre Dame will face the Michigan Aztecs, California and Washington hold forth on the Pacific coast.

An exceptional situation will confront football fans of the east on Saturday, Nov. 25, for the Harvard-Yale game will be played at New Haven, while the annual Army-Navy game will be staged at New York. In the middle west, Chicago meets Minnesota and Wisconsin plays Illinois. Pennsylvania will depart from her usual custom of resting previous to the Thanksgiving day game with Cornell and will meet West Virginia Wesleyan. The Cornell-Pennsylvania contest will be the feature of Thanksgiving day with the Brown Colgate and the Pittsburgh Team State games close seconds in the east. In the south Vanderbilt versus University of the South, Kentucky versus Tennessee, Alabama versus Georgia and Virginia versus North Carolina will all be star contests. In the west Nebraska versus Notre Dame, California versus Washington, South Carolina versus Oregon Aztecs and several other contests between state universities and agricultural schools will be among the more prominent games. The season will end on Saturday, Dec. 9, with two intercollegiate games, in which Georgetown will play Tulane at New Orleans and South Carolina will face Arizona at Tucson.

His One Regret.
"There's no use trying to deny it," remarked Mrs. DeBlatt, "this is the worst cook we've had yet. There positively isn't a de-vil at this table to eat on the table."
"That's right," rejoined DeBlatt.
"But," continued his wife, "there's one thing in her favor. She can't be bent when it comes to washing."
"Why we can't eat the washing," sighed the hungry husband.—Chicago News.

Would Help Some.
"What—er—what sort of a part has she in your show? Do you think she'll please the audience?" he queried anxiously.
"She ought to. She gets killed in the first act," replied a sister contemporary.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

At the Theatres

SOISSON THEATRE.

"WHAT LOVE CAN DO."—A two reel real feather production will be shown at the Soisson Theatre today with Alice Farrington in the leading role. The opening scenes introduce an actress approaching her manager for a position. This gentleman loathes to give it to her because he believes she has outgrown her prime and with it her popularity. But she succeeds. "Henson O' the Moor," a Universal special feature two reel Irish drama featuring Grace Cunard and Francis Ford. It has all the charm characteristics of the Irish people. "Sammy Johnson in Mexico," a Powers cartoon comedy. Animated Weekly No. 31 contains many interesting scenes. Tomorrow, the Bluebird feature, "Battina Loved a Soldier," with Louise Lovely.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"SILKS AND SATINS."—Starring the adorable Marguerite Clark, and "Gloria's Romance," presenting Billie Burke, are today's feature attractions. "Silks and Satins" is a true and tender reflection of every youthful dream that was ever dreamed. This delightful photoplay presents a romance that began with the present and goes back to the medieval times and returns to modernity for its climax. The plot is revealed by a very unique method of photoplay construction. Follies, the charming heroine portrayed by Marguerite Clark, finds on the day she is to be married to the man who does not love, the diary of an ancestor whose experience strangely paralleled hers. In this lovely little volume there is inscribed a story of thrills, heartaches, love battles and deeds of glory, which are enacted in Follies' mind upon the screen. These suggest the solution of her own romantic problems. The play is an unusual one. Some of the most elaborate settings ever erected in the famous Players studio were built for this production, among them a three story interior view of the Da-vignon chateau, and another interior view of the chateau, which was over 100 feet high. The picture is a delightful blend of the present and the past, in which Silks Clark plays both diminutive heroine in her adorable ways. Tomorrow Douglas Fairbanks will appear in "The Half Breed," a Tri-Color production rich in color, and rapid action. Mr. Fairbanks' interpretation of the half-breed is a piece of artistry without losing whatever charm, or individuality he possesses, a role of dignified pathos at moments, one of undoubted claim at all times. A Keystone comedy presenting Royce Arbuckle and Al St. John is included. Thursday Helen Holmes will be seen in "Judith of the Umbilical," a Mutual attraction in five acts.

SISLER SHOWS RARE FORM.

Diamond Veteran Says He Is Greatest All Round Player in Game's History. "George Sisler, the St. Louis Browns first sacker, is the greatest all round player the game ever produced," said a veteran St. Louis ball player recently. "We have had a number of men who could fill three or four positions on a team and fill them well, too, but they were not in a class with Sisler," continued the veteran. "This lad can play every position on a team and play it as well as the regular man. He can pitch, catch and play any infield or outfield position in masterly style. Sisler is a speed marvel and a good batter. If he had the dash of Cobb he would easily be the greatest of all ball players," concluded the old timer.

Unique Slugging Record.
Batters of the three baseball teams of Greater New York made a unique record on July 11 when three heavy hitters collected four home runs between them. Baker of the Yankees, smashed out a circuit drive against Cleveland, Burns of the Giants collected two in the same against the Pirates, and Stengel of Brooklyn won for the Robins with his fourth sack hit at Cincinnati.

MAC K TELLS HOW HE BUILDS UP CLUB

He Thinks It Better to Train Up Green Players.

THROWS LIGHT ON PLANS

Baseball Expert Says It Is Too Expensive to Let the Minor Leagues Develop Stars; Predicts He Will Have Pennant Winners in Two Years.

Manager Connie Mack of the Athletics refuses to be a pessimist, although others are worrying about his ball team. He is optimistic as far as the meaning of the word goes and says that in time he will have molded together a club that will more than repay the fans for their patience with the team that is in its early stages of development. Mack listened to all comment and criticism with deaf ears until recently, when he consented to inform the fans concerning his plans.

Club Owners Satisfied.
"I am part owner of the Athletics and am perfectly satisfied with conditions, and so are the Shibles. We are willing to lose money while we are developing a new team. We do not expect the fans to patronize a losing team. All we ask is patience when we show them a real ball team, and we will do that," said Manager Mack.

"I have everything I own tied up in this ball team and am doing what I know is best. I believe I know the baseball business and am gaining my reputation on my ability to come back, and I am coming back with a greater team than ever before. I don't believe in building up a ball team as other managers do and therefore I care nothing about the charges made by critics throughout the country.

"Seven other American league owners are perfectly satisfied with the way we run our ball team," continued Connie, "and also have confidence in my ability to construct another championship team. I have built two separate and distinct machines which have been powerful potent winning combinations and will have another within two years. American league managers believe in me and I will not disappoint them."

"I have been managing ball teams for more than twenty years and have tried out every method. I managed in minor leagues and learned my lesson there."

"While in the minor field I tried developing ball players from the raw material and discovered that after I had sent them up to the major leagues they had to be started all over again because they played a different style from that their new managers used. I required two or three years for the youngsters to get going, and then they were not playing their natural game."

Hard to Develop Minors.
"I made up my mind then that I would build from the ground up if ever I got a chance, and it came shortly after. I seldom go after a minor league star, not because of the ridiculous price asked for his release but because I find it is harder to develop to my style of play than the inexperienced youth."

"Does it not stand to reason that, if a youngster with natural ability can be developed into a minor league sensation in two years and then come into the major leagues a star, the same player could also be developed into a star in the same length of time playing right under my eyes?"

Rookies Will Develop Fast.
"It was three years before Collins, Barry, Molins, Strunk, Baker and others of my old team found their stride, but this new bunch will come along faster unless I make any guess. They have a better chance because they are getting more opportunities to play in regular games."

"I have the foundation for a great club right now. I admit that I am disappointed at the showing of several of my recruits and a few of the veterans who were left over, but I want to say that we have others coming who will fill the bill if these youngsters fail to come through."

Joel Sticks.
The composition of the candles called Joel sticks, which are used in all the religious ceremonies of Buddhism, for a long time remained a mystery, the preparation of the sticks being entrusted to certain persons chosen from a limited class. A French chemist, however, learned the manner of making these sticks in Indo-China. A stem of bamboo is rolled in a preparation containing fourteen different coloriferous dyes, two of which are significant as showing a knowledge of chemical and physical properties. These are acetic, which serves to protect the sticks against the attacks of rats and mice, and camphor, which causes them to burn steadily without being periodical, is extruded.

The LONE STAR RANGER

A ROMANCE OF THE BORDER

By ZANE GREY

AUTHOR OF
"THE LIGHT OF WESTERN STARS"
"RIDERS OF THE PURPLE SAGE," ETC.

After supper the guests assembled in a big sitting-room where an open fireplace with blazing mesquite sticks gave out warm and cheery glow. Duane took a seat by a table in the corner, and, finding a paper, began to read. Presently when he glanced up he saw two dark-faced men,

One Was a Striking-Looking Man.

strangers who had not appeared before. They were peering in from a doorway. When they saw Duane had observed them they stepped back out of sight.

It flashed over Duane that the strangers acted suspiciously. In Texas in the seventies it was always bad policy to let strangers go unobserved. Then he went out into a patio, and across it to a little dingy, dimly lighted barroom. Here he found the innkeeper dispensing drinks to the two strangers.

"Hey something!" one of them asked, leaning. Both looked Duane up and down.

"No thanks, I don't drink," Duane replied, and returned their scrutiny with interest. "How's tricks in the big world?"

Both men stared. It had only taken a close glance for Duane to recognize a type of ruffian met frequently met about the river. These strangers had that stamp, and their surprise proved he was right. Here the innkeeper showed signs of uneasiness, and seconded the surprise of his customers. No more was said at the instant, and the two rather hurriedly went out.

"Say, boss, do you know these fellows?" Duane asked the innkeeper.

"Nop," they nodded dumbly, coming from Bradford they said, and trailed in after the stage."

When Duane returned to the sitting-room Colonel Longstreth was absent. Also several of the other passengers. Miss Ruth sat in the chair he had vacated, and across the table from her sat Miss Longstreth. Duane went directly to them.

"Excuse me," said Duane, addressing them. "I want to tell you there are a couple of rough-looking men here. I've just seen them. They mean evil. Tell your father to be careful. Lock your doors—bar your windows to-night."

"Oh," cried Ruth, very low. "Ray, do you hear?"

"Thank you; we'll be careful," said Miss Longstreth, gracefully. "The rich color had faded in her cheek. If she were more watching you from that door. They had such bright black eyes. Is there really danger—here?"

"I think so," was Duane's reply.

Soft soft steps behind him preceded a harsh voice: "Lands up!"

No man was quicker than Duane to recognize the intent in those words. His hands shot up. Miss Ruth uttered a little frightened cry and sank into her chair. Miss Longstreth turned white, her eyes dilated. Both girls were staring at someone behind Duane.

"Turn around!" ordered the harsh voice.

The big, dark stranger, the bearded one who had whispered to his comrade in the bar-room and asked Duane to drink, had him covered with a cocked gun. He strode forward, his eyes gleaming, pressed the gun against Duane's chest, and with his other hand, he pulled Duane's coat and tore out his roll of bills. Then he reached low at Duane's hip, felt his gun, and took it. His comrade stood in the door with a gun leveled at two other men, who stood there frightened speechless.

"Get a move on, Bill," called this fellow; and he took a hasty glance backward. A stamp of boots came from outside. Of course the robbers had horses waiting. The one called Bill strode across the room, and with brutal, careless haste began to prod the two men with his weapon and to search them. The robber in the doorway called "Rustle!" and disappeared.

his bloodshot eyes fastened upon the girls. Miss Longstreth never flinched, but the little girl appeared about to faint.

"Don't yip, there!" he said, low and hard. He thrust the gun close to Ruth. Duane had a little gun in his pocket. The robber had missed it, and he began to calculate chances. "Any money, jewelry, diamonds?" ordered the ruffian, fiercely.

Miss Ruth collapsed. Then he made at Miss Longstreth. She stood with her hands at her breast. Evidently the robber took this position to mean that she had valuable concealed there. But Duane fancied she had instinctively pressed her hands against a throbbing heart.

"Come out with it!" he said, harshly, reaching for her.

"Don't dare touch me!" she cried, her eyes ablaze. She did not move. She had nerve. She eluded two lunges the man made at her. Then his rough hand caught at her waist, and with one pull ripped it asunder, exposing her beautiful shoulder, white as snow.

She cried out. The prospect of being robbed or even killed had not shocked Miss Longstreth's nerve as had this brutal tearing off of half her waist.

The ruffian was only turned partially away from Duane. The gun was still held dangerously upward close to her. Duane watched only that. Then a hollow noise his jerk his head. Colonel Longstreth stood in the doorway in a magnificent rage. He had no weapon. Strange how he showed no fear! He followed something again.

Duane's shifting glance caught the robber's sudden movement. He seemed struck. The hand that clutched Miss Longstreth's torn waist loosened its hold. The other hand with its cocked weapon slowly dropped till it pointed to the floor. That was Duane's chance.

Swift as a flash he drew his gun and fired. Then the robber's gun boomed harmlessly. He fell with blood spurting over his face. Duane rushed out of the room, across the patio, through the bar to the yard in the gloom stood a saddled horse, probably the one belonging to the fellow he had shot. His comrade had escaped. Returning to the sitting-room, Duane found a condition up brooding portentousness.

The innkeeper was shouting to find out what had happened. Joel, the stage-driver, was trying to quiet the men who had been robbed. The woman, wife of one of the men, had come in, and she had hysterics. The girls were still and white. The robber Bill lay where he had fallen. Like a caged lion Longstreth stalked and roared. There came a quieter moment in which the innkeeper shrilly protested.

"What's your name?" Duane asked. "Nobody's hurt, an' that's lucky. I swear to God I hadn't nothing to do with them fellows!"

"I ought to kill you anyhow!" replied Longstreth. And his voice now astounded Duane. It was so full of power.

Upon examination Duane found that his bullet had furrowed the robber's temple and had glanced. It was not seriously injured, and already showed signs of returning consciousness.

"Drag him out of here!" ordered Longstreth; and he turned to his daughter.

Before the innkeeper reached the robber Duane had secured the money and gun taken from him; and presently recovered the property of the other men. Joel helped the innkeeper carry the injured man somewhere outside.

Miss Longstreth was sitting white but composed upon the couch, where lay Miss Ruth, who evidently had been carried there by the Colonel. The Colonel, now that he finally remembered his womanfolk, seemed to be gentle and kind. He talked soothingly to Miss Ruth, made light of the adventure, and she must learn to have nerve out here where things happened.

"Can I be of any service?" asked Duane, solicitously.

"Thank you; I guess there's nothing you can do. Talk to these frightened girls while I go see what's to be done with that thick-skulled robber," he replied, and, telling the girls that there was no more danger, he went out.

Miss Longstreth sat with one hand holding her torn waist in place; the other she extended to Duane. He took it awkwardly, and he felt a strange thrill.

"You saved my life," she said, in grave, sweet seriousness. "No, no!" Duane exclaimed. "He might have struck you, hurt you, but no more."

"Did you kill him?" asked Miss Ruth, who lay listening.

"Oh, no. He's not badly hurt," said Miss Longstreth, shuddering.

Ray Longstreth." "I'm traveling that way," replied Duane, in great confusion. He did not know how to meet the situation. Colonel Longstreth returned then, and after bidding Duane a good night, which seemed rather curt by contrast to the graciousness of the girls, he led them away.

Before going to bed Duane went outside to take a look at the injured robber and perhaps to ask him a few questions. He Duane's surprise, he was gone, and so was his horse. The innkeeper was dumfounded. He said that he left the fellow on the door in the burrow.

"Had he come to?" inquired Duane. "Sure. He asked for whiskey." "Did he say anything else?" "Not to me. I heard him talking to the father of them girls."

"You mean Colonel Longstreth?" "I reckon. He sure was some riled, wasn't he? Just as if I was to blame for that two-bit of a hold-up!"

"What did you make of the old gent's rage?" asked Duane, watching the innkeeper. He scratched his head dubiously. He was sincere, and Duane believed in his honesty.

"Well, I'm doggoned if I know what to make of it. But I reckon he's either crazy or got more nerve than most Texans."

"More nerve, maybe," Duane replied. "Show me a bed now, innkeeper."

Once in bed in the dark, Duane composed himself to think over the events of the evening. Why had that desperate robber lowered his gun and stood paralyzed at sight and sound of the mayor of Fairdale? This was not answerable. There might have been a number of reasons, all to Colonel Longstreth's credit, but Duane could not understand.

Next morning Duane walked up the main street and back again. Just as he arrived at the horse-drawn road up to the inn and dismounted. And at this juncture the Longstreth party came out. Duane heard Colonel Longstreth utter an exclamation. Then he saw him shake hands with a tall man, Longstreth looked surprised and angry, and he spoke with force; but Duane could not hear what it was he said. The fellow laughed, yet somehow he struck Duane as sullen, until suddenly he espied Miss Longstreth. Then his face changed, and he removed his sombrero. Duane went closer.

"Floyd, did you come with the tourist?" asked Longstreth, sharply.

"Not me. I rode a horse, good and hard," was the reply.

"I'll have a word to say to you later," then Longstreth turned to his daughter. "Ray, here's the cousin I've told you about. You used to play with him ten years ago—Floyd Lawson. Floyd, my daughter—and my niece, Ruth Herbert."

Duane always scrutinized everyone he met, and now with a dangerous game to play, with a consciousness of Longstreth's unusual and significant personality, he bent a keen and searching glance upon this Floyd Lawson.

He was under thirty, yet gray at his temples—dark, smooth-shaven, with lines left by wisdom, disipation, shadows under dark eyes, a mouth strong and bitter, and a square chin, a careless, careless, handsome, sinistral face smiling, losing the hardness when he smiled. The grace of a gentleman clung round him, seemed like an echo in his mellow voice. Duane doubted not that he, like many a young man, had drifted out to the frontier, where rough and wild life had wrought sternly but had not quite effaced the mark of good family.

Colonel Longstreth apparently did not share the pleasure of his daughter and his niece in the advent of this cousin. Something lingered on this evening. Duane grew intensely curious, but, as the stage appeared ready for the journey, he had no further opportunity to gratify it.

CHAPTER XVII.

Duane looked the stage through the town, out into the open on a wide, hard-packed road showing years of travel. It headed northwest. To the left rose a range of low, bleak mountains he had noted yesterday, and to the right sloped the mesquite-burched sweep of ridge and flat. The driver pushed his team to a fast trot, which gait surely covered ground rapidly.

Early in the afternoon from a ridge-top Duane sighted Fairdale, a green patch in the mass of gray. For the burrows of Texas it was indeed a fair sight. But he was more concerned with its remoteness from civilization than its beauty. At that time, in the early seventies, when the vast western plains had done wonders to settle there and establish places like Fairdale.

It needed only a glance for Duane to pick out Colonel Longstreth's ranch. The house, not more than a few minutes' walk from the edge of the town, was a low flat-roofed structure made of red adobe bricks. All was green about it, except where the fenced corral and numerous barns or sheds showed gray and red.

From all outside appearances Fairdale was no different from other frontier towns, and Duane's expectations were scarcely realized. As the afternoon was waning he halted at a little inn. A boy took charge of his horse. Duane questioned the lad about Fairdale and gradually drew to the subject most in mind.

"Colonel Longstreth has a big outfit, eh?" "Reckon he has," replied the lad. "Doan know how many cowboys. They're always comin' and goin'. I ain't acquainted with half of them."

"Much movement of stock these days?" "Stock's always movin'," he replied, with a queer look.

But he did not follow up that look with the affirmative Duane expected. "Lively place, I hear—Fairdale is?" "Ain't so lively as Sanderson, but it's bigger."

"Yes, I heard it was. Fellow down there was talking about two cowboys who were arrested."

"Sure. I heard all about that. Joe Benn an' Brick Higgins—they be long horn, but they ain't heah much. Longstreth's boys."

Duane did not want to be over-inquisitive, so he turned the talk into other channels.

After getting supper Duane strolled up and down the main street. When darkness set in he went into a hotel bought cigars, sat around, and watched the men coming and going—a dusty-booted crowd that smelled of horses and smoke. Duane sat down for a while, with wide eyes and open ears. Then he hunted up the bar. He stayed there for a while, and knew that strangers were too common in Fairdale to be conspicuous. Then he returned to the inn where he had engaged a room on the steps of the dingy little restaurant. Two men were conversing inside, and they had not noticed Duane.

"Laramie, what's the stranger's name?" asked one.

"He didn't say," replied the other. "Sure was a strappin' big man. Struck me a little odd, he did. No cation, him. How'd you size him?"

"Well, like one of them cool, easy, quiet Texans who's been lookin' for a man for years—to kill him when he found him."

"Right you are, Laramie; and, between you an' me, I hope he's lookin' for Long—"

"S-sh!" interrupted Laramie. "You must be half drunk, to go talkin' that way."

Thereafter they conversed in too low a tone for Duane to hear, and presently Laramie's visitor left Duane went inside, and making himself agreeable began to ask casual questions about Fairdale. Laramie was not communicative.

Duane went to his room in a thoughtful frame of mind. There was something wrong about the mayor of Fairdale. The innkeeper Laramie would be worth cultivating. And just as Duane thought that that night was Miss Longstreth's. He could not help thinking of her—how strangely the meeting with her had affected him. It made him remember that long-past time when girls had been a part of his life. He had no right even to dream of a beautiful woman like Ray Longstreth.

Several days passed. Duane did not succeed in getting any closer to Laramie, but he found the idlers on the corners and in front of the stores unobtrusive and willing to talk. It did not take him long to find out that Fairdale stood parallel with Huntsville for gambling, drinking, and fighting. The street was always lined with dusty, saddled horses, the town full of strangers. Money appeared more abundant than in any place Duane had ever visited; and it was spent with the abandon that spoke forcibly of easy and crooked acquirement.

Duane decided that Sanderson, Bradford, and Ord were but notorious outposts of this Fairdale, which was a secret center of rustlers and outlaws. And what struck Duane straightest of all was the fact that Longstreth was mayor here and held court daily. Inquiry had brought him the fact that Ray Longstreth had just come to live with his father. Longstreth had originally been a hunter in Louisiana, where his family had remained after his advent in the West. He was a rich rancher; he owned half of Fairdale; he was a cattle-buyer on a large scale. Floyd Lawson was his lieutenant and associate in deals.

On the afternoon of the fifth day of Duane's stay in Fairdale he was returned to the inn from his usual stroll, and upon entering was amazed to find

Sight of Miss Longstreth had an uncomfortable effect upon Duane. He was plunged into confusion. For the moment he saw no one but her.

"Miss Longstreth—I came—to search—your house," panted Duane.

"Search my house?" exclaimed Miss Longstreth; and she succeeded the white in her cheeks. She appeared astonished and angry. What for? Why, how dare you! This is un-warrantable!"

"A man—Bo Srecker—assaulted and robbed Jim Laramie," replied Duane, hurriedly. "I chased Srecker here—saw him run into this house."

"Here? Oh, sir, you must be mistaken. We have seen no one. In the absence of my father I'm mistress here. I'll not permit you to search."

Lawson appeared to come out of his astonishment. He stepped forward. "Ray, don't be bothered now," he said, to his com- "This fellow's making a bluff. I'll settle him. See here, mister, you clear out!"

Laramie was lying on the floor, with a bloody bruise on his face. He did not appear to be dangerously hurt. "Do Srecker!" He hit me and went after the cash-drawer," said Laramie, laboring to his feet.

"Are you hurt much?" queried Duane.

"I guess not. But Bo didn't to have soaked me. I've been robbed without being hurt."

"Well, I'll take a look after Bo," replied Duane.

He went out and glanced down the street toward the center of the town. He did not see anyone he could take for the innkeeper's assailant. Then he looked up the street, and he saw the young fellow about a block away, hurrying along and casting back.

Duane yelled for him to stop and started to go after him. Srecker broke into a run. Then Duane set out to overtake him. There were two motives in Duane's action—one of anger, and the other a desire to make a friend of this man Laramie, who Duane believed could tell him much.

Duane was light on his feet, and he had a giant stride. He gained rapidly, kept him in sight, in the shade, on the patio, and up the road into the courtyard, and he saw Srecker go straight for Longstreth's house.

Duane was not to be turned back by that singular act. He entered the first door and burst into the presence of Miss Longstreth and a number of young people. Evidently she was giving a little party.

Lawson stood leaning against one of the pillars; at sight of Duane his face changed remarkably, expressing uneasiness, consternation, then fear.

Miss Longstreth rose white as her dress. The young women present stared in astonishment, if they were not equally perturbed. There were cowboys present who suddenly drew intent and still. By these things Duane gathered that his appearance must be disconcerting. He was panting. He wore no hat or coat. His big gunbelt showed plainly at his hip.

Sight of Miss Longstreth had an uncomfortable effect upon Duane. He was plunged into confusion. For the moment he saw no one but her.

"Miss Longstreth—I came—to search—your house," panted Duane.

that he was guilty of such motive. Had he not been unable to put this Ray Longstreth out of his mind? There seemed to be scorn in her eyes now. And somehow that checked his embarrassment.

"Miss Longstreth, will you let me search the house?" he asked.

"No."

"Then—I regret to say—I'll do so without your permission."

"You'll not dare!" she flashed. She stood erect, her bosom swelling.

"Pardon me—yes, I will."

"Who are you?" she demanded, suddenly.

"I'm a Texas Ranger," replied Duane.

"A Texas Ranger?" she echoed.

Floyd Lawson's dark face turned pale.

"Miss Longstreth, I don't need your name to search houses," said Duane. "I'm sorry to annoy you. I'd prefer to have your permission. A ruffian has taken refuge here—in your father's house. He's hidden some where. May I look for him?"

ARE YOU? GUILTY?
A FARMER carrying an express package from a big mail-order house was accused by a local dealer. "Why didn't you buy that bill of goods from me? I could have saved you the express, and besides you would have been patronizing a home store, which helps pay the taxes and builds up this locality." The farmer looked at the merchant a moment and then said: "Why don't you patronize your home paper and advertiser? I read it and didn't know that you had the stuff I have here."

NATIONAL PIKE IS TAKING A BACK SEAT AS AN AUTO TRAIL

Until the New Coat of Tar
is Dry, Motorists Will Stay Off.

TWO STATES GET THE FEVER

Both Maryland and Pennsylvania are Laying on Great Gobs of Sticky Stuff: Some Fine Dirt Trails in Bedford County: Roadside Gossip.

The National Pike isn't nearly so popular as it was, and it won't be for some weeks to come. The road workers of Pennsylvania and Maryland have gotten the improvement fever at the same time and great gobs of sticky tar are now being smeared over the surface in an effort to anchor the dust so it won't blow away. Until the tar dries, which will take some weeks, the best traveling east will be by way of the Lincoln Highway. Savage mountain, west from Frostburg and far some miles off, catches the summer's heat. On some parts there is a driveway on one side or the other that is reasonably clear, but the motorist who tries to escape picking up a collection of sticky black smudges might as well try another route.

The tar being applied by the State Highway Commission extends for several miles west of Somerset. After the tar peters out there is quite a stretch of freshly oiled road, which is somewhat preferable to the tar, but not much so. All in all, the National Pike isn't the most desirable route to take right now, but in a few weeks it ought to be in fine condition.

Some Fayette county supervisors ought to make a trip over the Bedford county. One of the best dirt roads in the state runs from Bedford Springs down to Cumberland. In dry weather it is, as a general thing, better to travel over than either the Bedford or the National Pike, unless it is too dusty. The road is smooth as a floor and there is apparently perfect drainage. It is virtually free of ruts. If there is a rut of 31 miles that has anything better in the way of dirt roads it isn't in this county.

The route now being used to Scotland has been libeled. It doesn't come up to specifications. The average autoist starts raving immediately this route is mentioned, but just the same, it is not any worse, if as bad, as the present route to Uniontown. There isn't a thing to commend the country seat road. In dry weather it is rough and dusty; in wet weather it is slippery. It is rough all the time. Hundreds of travelers are being fed over this route because it is taking all summer to get less than a mile of concrete road built.

With the National Pike all jammed up there is likely to be less motoring in Mountain Lake Park than usual.

This is the most popular drug hereabouts, and lives up to its reputation. After reaching Uniontown the entire distance is over a virtually perfect road, and is just far enough to make a comfortable one-day round-trip drive. The view at The Cove is worth the trip, although it is not quite so inspiring as that from Grand View, just west of Bedford.

ACID STOMACHS ARE DANGEROUS

Nine-Tenths of All Stomach Trouble
Due to Acidity Says New York
Physician.

A well-known New York physician who has made a special study of stomach and intestinal diseases recently made the startling statement that nearly all intestinal trouble as well as directly traceable to excessive stomach acidity commonly termed sour stomach or heartburn which not only irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach but may often cause gastritis and dangerous stomach ulcers.

Neglect he says easily leads to a chronic super-acidity, commonly called "acid indigestion" and is the principal cause for the indigestion and swelling of the various so-called patent digestive aids which bring only temporary and false relief.

In an acid condition of the stomach no artificial digestants whatever should be employed as these are likely to merely pass the sour, burning acid on into the intestines, causing serious trouble there. Instead he recommends the use of some simple, harmless and inexpensive antacid such as a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda, taken with a little hot or cold water right after meals or whenever distress is felt.

This simple remedy in just a few seconds from its entering the stomach neutralizes or sweetens all its sour contents. Dissolve the dangerous acidity and there will be no need for medicine as all symptoms of indigestion will promptly cease. Sufferers from acidity, sour stomach or indigestion should get a few ounces of the pure bicarbonate of soda from their druggist and give this treatment a trial. In view, however, of the many varieties of soda used for various purposes, stomach sufferers should be careful to get it only in the bicarbonate form (either powder or tablets) and in a sealed package to insure its purity.—Adv.

STILL SAYS HE FLIRTED WITH DEATH A YEAR

Pittsburg Man Frequently
Fainted and Had to be Taken to Hospital.

"I'll tell you the truth, if I knew this Tanlac was not going to be sold any more, I would try to buy every bottle on that counter over there before I left here today," said W. J. Smith at the drug store in Pittsburg, Pa., where Tanlac, the celebrated preparation, is being introduced. Mr. Smith, it might be well to mention, lives at 1306 Magnolia street, North Side, and is connected with the New York Dye Works, at 828 Penna. avenue, in this city.

"Before I began taking it," he continued, "I weighed many pounds less than I ever weighed. Today, I got on the scales and tipped them 10 pounds more than I have weighed in 12 months or more. That's exactly what two bottles of Tanlac did for me. Just look at me. I'm filling these trousers rapidly."

"About two years ago I commenced having stomach trouble and it kept getting worse until I began having regular attacks of acute indigestion. When these attacks came on me, and they were usually accompanied by nervous spells and dizziness, I would just swell up out of all proportion and become as limp as a rag. My breath would get short and my pulse so weak I was afraid my heart would stop beating. I have become unconscious on the street numerous times and have had to be taken to the hospital. I tell you I was flirting with my grave, and would have been in it if it hadn't been for Tanlac."

Tanlac is now sold in Conneltsville, exclusively by the Conneltsville Drug Company, where the premier preparation can be had.

Tanlac can also be secured in Dunbar at D. C. Eason's Drug Store.—Adv.
